

Antioch Country Fair Starts Today

FIREMEN TO HOLD THE ANNUAL FIRE PREVENTION DINNER

Week of October 8 Set by Roosevelt as Fire Prevention Week

The annual dinner given by the local firemen in observance of Fire Prevention Week will be held at St. Ignace Guild hall Monday evening at 6:45 p. m. Plans are being made to serve 125, including visiting firemen and their guests. Plate reservations will be open until Monday morning and may be made with Sec. John Horan or William Anderson, Captain James Young of the Fire Insurance Patrol, Chicago, will speak.

Other prominent firemen and guests to be present are: Chief Ed Hoskin, Highland Park, president of the Lake County Fire Association; Chief Jesse L. Pierce of Woodstock, president of McHenry Co. Fire Association; Dist. Deputy State Fire Marshal, Paul E. Bertram of Crystal Lake.

In further observance of Fire Prevention Week the firemen will visit at the grade and high schools and short talks will be made to the students by local firemen. During the week the Department Inspection Committee of Andrew Cobb and Herman Rosling will inspect the business section.

The regular meeting and annual election of officers will be held next Tuesday evening, October 10.

President Sets Date
It has been a commendable custom for the President of the United States to request the annual observance of "Fire Prevention Week" throughout the country. The week beginning October 8 was proclaimed to be observed as Fire Prevention week. It is the week set aside for the purpose of informing the public of the dangers of fire to life and property. Fires which are largely preventable take a cruel toll of many lives and destroy property exceeding $400,000,000 in value each year. Of late, progress has been made in reducing the Nation's fire loss, and this fact should encourage continuous vigilance and alertness so necessary to decrease the hazards of fire.

To Hold Barn Dance
A barn dance will be held by the Antioch firemen at the Stevens' new 36 ft. by 90 ft. barn Wednesday, October 11.

Goal of $1,000 Set for 1933 Sale of Christmas Seals

The Executive Committee of the Lake County Tuberculosis Association met Tuesday evening, September 26, at the office in the Court House. At this time preliminary plans were made for the 1933 Christmas Seal Sale. The goal for the sale was set at $1,000 for this year. The work of the organization is entirely dependent upon the sale of seals sold in LAKE COUNTY.

One important phase of this work of the organization is the monthly Chest Clinic which is held at St. Theresa's Hospital, on the second Tuesday of each month. At the last clinic thirty-two patients were examined, most of these being children. Mrs. Barney Trieger is Antioch's representative on the Board of Directors.

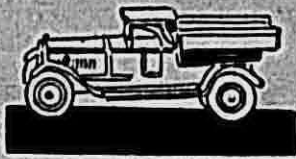

Lake Villa Women's Club Resumes Its Meetings for Fall

The Lake Villa Women's Club resumed its activities after a summer vacation Tuesday afternoon at the Bradley home at Allendale.

This was the first meeting of the club with its new officers: Mrs. Al B. Maier, president; Miss Beattie Quant, vice-president; Mrs. Glendish, secretary; Mrs. Troy Ballinger, treasurer; and Mrs. W. Plinch, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Barbara Erwin, Kenilworth, chairman of the department of the tenth district, spoke on international relationships after which tea was served.

The November meeting will be devoted to entertaining the neighboring clubs. The speaker for that occasion will be announced later.

WALLACE APPROVES BOOST IN MILK PRICE

Amendment Awaits Action
of Chicago Producers and Distributors

BOST GIVES FIGURES

The proposed increase in the price of milk from $1.75 to $2.10 per hundred pounds of milk was given the approval of Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture at Washington Saturday.

Don F. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk Association is now active in Chicago securing signatures of the representatives of the producers and distributors at Chicago. When agreement to the new code is obtained it will be returned to Washington for Secretary Wallace's signature.

Retail Price 11 Cents

Under the proposed amendment to the existing milk marketing agreement the retail price of milk will be raised from 10 to 11 cents per quart, with plants remaining at 7 cents. According to Dr. Clyde L. King, chief of the dairy section of the agricultural adjustment administration at Washington, the farmer will receive the full benefit of the raise in price. The amendment provides that the

PARADE OF NEW FASHIONS TO BE FEATURE OF FAIR

A style show, held in connection with the Antioch Country Fair, will be held Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium. It is expected that a large group of women, interested in the trend of the styles, will be present. The dresses displayed will be modeled by Mrs. Edmund Vos, Mrs. Fred Stamer, Miss Esther Stearns, Miss Virginia Tidmarsh, Mrs. Sorenson, and Miss Mildred Robinson.

The showing of fall and winter styles this year is extremely interesting in that materials are richer individually and in combinations. The woolen dresses are light in weight, beautiful in design and color, and made with particular attention to detail. Velvets and dull crepes trimmed in velvet are good for afternoon and evening wear.

Hats, while still tilting forward at a dangerous angle which is really becoming after one is accustomed to it, are beginning an off-the-forehead movement which is kind only to the youthful face. Brims to the woman of thirty summers or more are a most essential beauty aid and should not be discarded without a second thought.

Simon Simonsens Observe Their Silver Wedding Anniversary

As a fitting climax to twenty-five years of married life Mr. and Mrs. Simon Simonsen experienced their first fire-truck ride Tuesday evening, October 3, when they were driven through the town. They were entertained later as guests at the Chris Mortenson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Simonsen were married in Chicago in 1908. Mrs. Simonsen, nee Malmén Mean, was born in Norway, but came to this country when she was twenty-five years old, and married a year later.

They lived on a farm about two miles south of Antioch for ten years, after which they moved into the village. Mr. Simonsen has served as marshal for ten years, but until Tuesday evening never had a ride on the fire truck.

The Simonsens are the parents of five children, Anna, Edgar, Helen, Walter and Mabel.

MILLBURN MASONIC LODGE CELEBRATES 80TH ANNIVERSARY

R. W. Churchill is the Main
Speaker; Judge Persons
Speaks Briefly

The Antioch Masonic Lodge No. 127, one of the oldest in the county, celebrate the eightieth anniversary of its founding in the Masonic Hall at Millburn Tuesday evening, October 3. Over a hundred were present, including the members and their families and friends.

The present Master of the Lodge, A. G. Torfin, opened the program by giving a resume of the founding and activities of the lodge during the past eighty years. It was founded in May, 1853, at Antioch, but did not receive its charter until October 3 of that year. Sixteen years later the chapter moved to Millburn where it has remained since that time.

Purchase Strang Store

There was on the corner lot across the street and slightly south of the present hall. In 1886 the Strang store next to the Church was purchased. Since that time the building has been widened, additions and improvements have been made. The second floor is now used by members of the Masonic and Eastern Star orders while the first floor is used for community social purposes. In 1927 the lots south and west of the building were purchased.

Old Members Reminiscence

Mr. Torfin called upon several of the oldest Masons present for reminiscences, including Mr. Broh, Mr. Washburn and Judge Perry L. Persons. A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Ruth Nelson, Antioch High school student, followed by a saxophone number by Miss LaVerne Boyle, also of the A. T. H. S. Hans Von Holwede, music instructor at the high school obliged with several folk-places on his piano accompaniment.

The principal speaker of the evening, R. W. Churchill of Libertyville, spoke on the inviolable right of secrecy for organizations as well as for individuals, and pointed out that such secrecy should not merit antagonism.

At the close of the program bridge and 500 were played after which the traditional refreshments of cheese and crackers and elder were served. The committee in charge of the program was composed of Carl Hughes, chairman; Emmett King and Herman Steer. William Weber and Ed Martin served on the refreshment committee.

TREVOR STOCK CO. IS REORGANIZED; DELANCEY PRESIDENT

Former General Manager & Associates Buy Controlling Interest

Ed S. Delancey and associates, Willard Olson and Myron Riggs, of Janesville, Wis., have acquired the controlling interest in the Wisconsin Live Stock Commission Company of Trevor through the purchase recently of the interests of James Crosby and Frank Beckley of Sycamore, Ill., and Richard Beaton of Sharon, Wis. Henry Christopher, former manager of the Trevor company and Alfred Pederson of Antioch retain their financial interests in the company, according to Myron Riggs.

DeLancey, who was formerly general manager of the old Wisconsin Horse and Dairy Cattle Market, is president of the Wisconsin Dairy Cattle Market, which has been in successful operation at Janesville, Wis., for the past year and a half. Olson is vice president of that company and Riggs is secretary and treasurer.

The first sale under the management of the new organization was held Tuesday of this week when 75 dairy cattle and three carloads of horses were sold at auction. Sales will be held each Tuesday at Trevor and at Janesville on Saturdays.

The Daughters of the G. A. R. will meet at their hall next Monday evening, Oct. 9. Important business will be transacted.

SPECIAL SESSION COVERS 9 SUBJECTS; RELIEF UP FIRST

May Divert Fuel Tax—Hope
for Voters' Approval
in 1934

Springfield, Oct. 5.—Unemployment relief took the center of the stage this week at the first of a series of special sessions which a reluctant legislature fears may last through the winter. Only perfunctory sessions are expected this week. Next week the fireworks will start.

The printed call for the special session covers nine subjects which can be summarized and discussed as follows:

"1. To enact laws to provide for the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission to be used for the relief of persons who are destitute and in necessitous circumstances."

This opens the way for approval of a $30,000,000 state bond issue for relief to be paid out of motor fuel tax receipts and to be approved at a referendum in November, 1934. In the meantime it is planned to issue "anticipation certificates."

To make sure they will be paid off, even if the people defeat the bond issue, Gov. Horner will demand a companion law authorizing the levying of $40,000,000 in extra taxes on property to meet the Jan. 1, will also be pressed by the Democrats. The wording of this section of the call is believed by the "master minds" in the capital to block any attempt to repeal the sales tax or to repass the Lantz bills which would give Cook county the privilege of taking care of its own poor.

Section 2 would permit political subdivisions of the state to get federal public works funds for local improvements. Section 3 would give building and loan associations and others the right to acquire bonds of the federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation. It is not likely that there will be any opposition to these.

Section 4 would permit the federal government to complete the Chicago Sanitary District disposal plants and lease them back to the district until paid for. The state is now under orders of the U. S. supreme court to carry out this work, the district being insolvent by reason of the criminal looting of its funds under Democratic rule. The Republicans in the legislature will block these bills until certain they meet with the approval of federal authorities.

Section 5 will co-ordinate the work of the state employment bureau with the federal employment system and pave the way for the state to get some federal funds. Section 6 is technical, clearing up a question regarding county tax levies. Section 7 will deal with interest on state funds.

Sections 8 and 9 cover appropriations to be made at the special session which are certain to run the biennial appropriations far over $400,000,000. The regular session appropriated $370,000,000, or about $25,000,000 more than any previous regular session in the history of the state.

First Building Burned
The first Master was Frank Simmons. When the Lodge was first organized meetings were held in the frame building then known as the China building on the site of the present Powles' Meat Market. This was destroyed by fire in 1897, after which meetings were held in the Old Fellows hall over the old State Bank on the east side of the street. Some time later meetings were held in the Brogan building. The present building was purchased nearly 20 years ago, by issuing shares to members, which have now all been paid off. Since its purchase a number of improvements have been made, the most recent being the addition of a dining room in which one hundred may be seated.

The dinner was served by members of the Eastern Star.

Miss Hyman To Speak At First P.-T.A. Meeting

Miss Beatrice C. Hyman, principal of the Leander Stone School in Chicago, will speak before the Parent-Teachers' Association at their meeting to be held at the grade school next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Hyman spoke last winter, and was so well liked that it is upon popular request that she has been asked to return. Her subject will be "Parent-Teacher Cooperation and the Changing School."

This is the first regular meeting of the P. T. A. for this year, for which a very interesting program has been arranged. In addition to the speaker, Mrs. G. W. Jensen will entertain with several vocal numbers and reports will be given by those attending the annual conference for Dist. 21 at the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held at Wilmette Friday. Those expected to attend are Mrs. W. C. Petty, Mrs. Ben Burke, Mrs. Nason Sibley, Mrs. William Anderson, and Mrs. L. John Zimmerman.

THE ANTIOCH COUNTRY FAIR

Officials of the Antioch Country Fair declare that entries in the tenth annual exhibition will equal those of former years. That fact is encouraging, and brings into bold relief the truth that Nature ignores man-made depressions, carrying on her work of producing bounteous crops and her usual fine specimens of poultry and live stock. Nor has the depression destroyed the fine and wholesome community spirit that continues to make Antioch's fair an annual event of inspiration, instruction and joy.

Nature does not err, but lends a helping hand to all intelligently directed human institutions, which endure no longer than man will let them live.

Long live the Antioch Country Fair!

SMALL HOPE FOR WILL'S HOPE

While flying over Hoover Dam on a recent air trip from Chicago to the Coast, Will Rogers dropped off his daily message to newspapers. One of his remarks was: "Hope they don't irrigate more land so they can raise more things they can't sell, and will have to plow up more rows, kill more pigs to keep 'em from becoming hogs."

Our politicians still talk glibly of pouring new millions into irrigation schemes to make more farms out of waste land and deserts, thus boosting over-production of agricultural crops, which another group of politicians will expect the taxpayers to pay for, to bring about farm relief.

Inflation, if, as and when it comes, probably won't take the form of printing press money. If the Administration has its way, it will be done through an extension of bank credit. According to the U. S. Daily, the policy, in a nutshell, is that the government is going to see the banks through and the banks in turn must put out credit in a much bigger way than they have been.

Banks are filled with idle money but the banks' position is a different one—they've got to put money where they can get it when needed, and most applications for loans are based on projects which, from that standpoint, are pretty dubious and not acceptable to the inflexible banking laws and regulations which require liquid collateral rather than character and past business standing as the basis of a loan.

Production, continued production, is necessary if our manufacturing plants are to keep men employed. Buying power must be built. Buying power must be used. Only through consumption which demands increased production can payrolls be built up. No plant can continue to operate beyond consumer demand.

A dollar spent now for building does two things. It helps the construction industry put back to work thousands of skilled and unskilled workers; it buys needed materials now cheaper than they can be bought later. Even though the cost is now higher than it was a few months ago this merely proves that costs are increasing. To save money and create jobs, act NOW.

Statistics show a shortage of over 1,000,000 houses. This figure is based on a definite survey in 257 cities. Millions of homes already built are sorely in need of modernizing—a concrete driveway, a basement, a paint job, a new roof, refurnishing.

A dollar will buy more for you today, do more for your country, than later. Analyze your building needs. Ask yourself, "How can I best do my part?"

GOV. HORNER AND TAX RELIEF

Neither the Democratic party's pledge nor the Governor's was made good at the last session of the Legislature. On the contrary, the governor and other leaders of the Democratic party in Illinois browbeat the Senate into defeating legislation that would have opened the way for the promised relief, says the Chicago American.

That legislation was the Bederman resolution. It proposed to submit to the people of Illinois, at the election of November, 1934, an amendment to the revenue article of the state constitution that would limit taxes on all property to 1 per cent of the property's fair cash value, exclusive of bond obligations, and would exempt from taxation $1,000 of valuation on any property occupied as a homestead.

Thus if you owned and lived in a house worth, with its lot, $1,000 or less, you would pay NO tax on it. If you owned and lived in a $5,000 house you would pay taxes on $4,000 of its value.

The Bederman resolution was earnestly supported by business men, farmers, real estate dealers, home owners, both downstate and in Cook county. And it was passed by the House by the astounding majority of 128 to 5.

Its passage in the Senate seemed assured also. Many senators had promised to support it. But in the closing days of the session Governor Horner and other Democratic leaders, from Chicago, went into the Senate committee rooms, summoned the Democratic senators before them and ordered the Bederman resolution killed.

It WAS killed. And with its death thousands of real estate owners throughout Illinois, who had been roused to a new hope by the prospect of its passage, sank again into the lethargy of despair.

Real estate in Illinois now bears 85 PER CENT OF THE TAX LOAD. That must be reduced sharply. By including tax relief legislation in the call for the second special legislative session Governor Horner can do his part toward bringing that reduction nearer. Also he can demonstrate that he meant what he said on last January 9 when, in his inaugural address he declared:

"The Legislature should be free to shift equitably and justly the tax burden from subject to subject and object to object, according to capacity to pay and equities of the matter."

Passage of a resolution like the Bederman proposal would give the Legislature the right to "shift the tax burden," provided the people of Illinois, at the referendum, ratified it.

With thousands of them losing their homes and farms because of excessive taxation, it can scarcely be doubted that they WOULD ratify it.

At least they should have the chance to VOTE on it.

NOTE:

The Bederman resolution, the most constructive measure offered at the regular session of the legislature, was introduced by Rep. Edwin B. Bederman, Republican of Chicago, and an associate member of the Managing Committee of the Republican State Central Committee. It was introduced as a Republican party measure and will have the support of the Republicans if reintroduced at the special session. Republican leaders, however, doubt the sincerity of the sudden change of front on the part of the Horner-Kelly-Nash machine with regard to the measure, and expect that there will be strings attached to any Democratic support which may again result in its defeat.

"That's the way I would look at the cost of my telephone if I did not benefit from its use in other ways. In my livestock, barns, machinery and home I have an investment. Surely this investment is worth the protection a telephone gives, when it costs only a few pennies a day. Day or night, I can call the fire department, the police or my neighbors if I need them. Some day one call may be worth more than I've paid for my telephone for many years."

A forty-five minute period for study has been arranged for the seventh and eighth grades. The students meet in the music room each day and study without the aid of the teacher of their particular rooms, although an instructor is present to maintain order.

In this way it is hoped that the students will become accustomed to individual study in preparation for high school.

Welcomes 1933 Winners

MYRON WEBB E. STANLEY KNOCHER ALBERT W. FISCHER

CHICAGO—Albert W. Fischer, of Waukegan, Ill., who took the limelight in 1931 by winning a four-year scholarship in the annual coach-building competition of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, again shared honors when the Guild held its third convention here. He and the seven other scholarship winners of previous years were special guests for four days, with a table to themselves at the award dinner where this year's scholarships were presented. Fischer was among the first to congratulate the newly-announced winners, each of whom is now in line for a scholarship like his own.

The Guild competition will be repeated next year. President W. A. Fisher announced, but with 18 scholarships offered, instead of six as now. A seventh was added at the last minute this year, because the judges could not decide between two of the Canadian winners.

The scholarship list now includes Fischer, Donald C. Burnham, of West Lafayette, Ind.; Raymond Doerr, of Battle Creek, Mich.; Howard Jennings, of Denver, Colo.; Fred Friedrich, of Rochester, N. Y.; Ernie Busch, of Columbus, Wis.; Gordon L. Drummond, of Washington, D. C.; Raymond Smith, of Lawton, Okla.; Myron Webb, of Arkansas City, Kan.; Charles Gadd, of Spokane, Wash.; Jack Wicks, of St. Paul, Minn.; E. Stanley Knochel, Jr., of Baltimore, Md.; David Tennant, and Richard Guthrie, of London, Ont.; and Joseph Olafson, of Lethbridge, Sask., the last seven being newly announced.

Stranger to Merchant—Do you find that married men or single men make the best clerks?

Merchant, whispering — Married men. They are not in such an awful rush to get out of the place and get home.

Milton—Henry, your wife never seems to grasp anything you are saying to her.

Henry—No; she's the kind of woman who, instead of listening to what you are saying, is already thinking of what she is going to say.

He—We were made for each other, I believe!
She—What salary do you get?
He—I get $18 a week now.
She—Then we were not made for each other.

Housewife—What made you so late with the milk this morning?
Milkman—Well, you see, our new code forbids us to have more than 25,000,000 bacteria to the quart, and you wouldn't believe how long it takes to count 'em.

Employer—James, I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work.
James—I wasn't working; I was just whistling.

Blot—If you were going to take up music, what instrument would you prefer to play?

Gob—Well, I've always thought I'd like to be a soloist on a cash register in a busy place.

Lawyer—Then you admit that you struck the plaintiff with malice aforethought?

Defendant, indignantly—You can't mix me up like that. I've told you twice I hit him with a brick, and done it on purpose. There wasn't no malice nor nothin' of the kind about it—just a plain brick like any gentleman would use.

He's Only 11, But He Can Make Jelly, Bake Biscuits, Or What Do You Like?

Jimmy Sands likes to play just as much as he likes to cook. So he's saving time by making jelly (left) with bottled fruit pectin. With eleven glasses to his credit, he looks pleased and proud when the job is finished!

MEET Jimmy Sands, 11-year-old champion cook of the Madison Square Boys' Club in New York City, where some 1200 youngsters seek recreation! Jimmy can whisk up a dozen biscuits or make a batch of jelly—presto—like that! For cooking in one of the many useful arts taught at the club, a community organization maintained entirely by voluntary contributions.

A real American boy, clear to his freckled nose, Jimmy Sands is proud of his culinary skill. To prove his ability recently, he made a batch of grape jelly in less than half an hour. By modern, simple methods, of course. Though he had an interested audience, Jimmy was entirely unfrustrated as he prepared the fruit, squeezed the juice, measured the sugar, brought the batch to a boil, added bottled fruit pectin to be sure it would "jell," and poured the lovely, fragrant liquid into scalded glasses.

Jimmy's talents make him a real help at the club where a great deal of jelly is required for the many boys. They all like this food. And, of course, jelly is an excellent energy food, because of the sugar it contains.

Here's Jimmy's grape jelly recipe, and one for jam, too.

Ripe Grape Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) juice
1 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar
1/4 bottle fruit pectin
To prepare juice, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1/2 cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If Malaga or other seedless grapes are used, the juice of 1 bunch should be added to prepared juice.) Measure sugar and pectin into measuring cup and mix. Bring to a boil over bottom fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 10 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Pour into hot, jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

Ripe Grape Jam
4 1/2 cups (2 1/4 lbs.) prepared fruit
1 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar
1/4 bottle fruit pectin
To prepare fruit, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes. Remove pulp, covered, 3 minutes. Remove pulp, add 1/2 cup water and add 1/2 cup sugar. Chop or grind skins and add 1/2 cup. Add 1/2 cup water and, if desired, ground seed of 1 orange. Stir well mixture. Grapes, covered, 30 minutes. (If Malaga, Malaga, and other seedless grapes are used, the juice of 1 bunch should be added to prepared fruit.) Measure sugar and pectin into measuring cup and mix. Bring to a boil over bottom fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 10 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Pour into hot, jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 1.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought; he maketh the devices of the people of none effect" (Psalms 33:10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass. For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be: yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place, and it shall not be: and the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace" (Psalms 37:7, 10-11).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Science explains the abstract statement that there is one Mind by the following self-evident proposition: If God, or good, is real, then evil, the unlikeness of God, is unreal. And evil can only seem to be real by giving reality to the unreal" (p. 470).

Says Life Insurance Companies Will Surpass All Past Records

President of Penn Mutual Cites Performance In Depression

William A. Law

A GROWTH in life insurance that will break all past records will be experienced when business returns to normal, in the opinion of William A. Law, president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, a former president of the American Bankers' Association, and a recognized authority on financial subjects.

Mr. Law said the future growth of life insurance is assured by the record of performance of the legal reserve companies during the last three and a half years and by the confidence which this record has instilled in the public mind.

"During the depression, the life insurance companies have met one of the most trying tests in their history," Mr. Law said. "With business stagnated, with banks failing, with millions unemployed and with vast numbers forced to draw upon their life insurance reserves, the companies withstood the storm and are today in position to meet several times over any legitimate demand that might be made upon them."

"In the three years, 1930-32, the legal reserve life insurance companies paid out more than $7,000,000,000 in policy and premium loans, surrender values, and payments to policyholders and beneficiaries. Despite these tremendous payments, the life insurance companies increased their total assets by more than $2,000,000,000 in the depression period."

"Those of us who have learned our lesson, as I am sure millions have, will save and invest far more carefully and intelligently than we have in the past. We shall seek safety of principal rather than big profits and we shall plan for security in old age. Too many of us have seen men and women lose their life savings to trust our future welfare to speculation. "It is in this that I see a growth of life insurance beyond anything it has yet approached. Life insurance will be purchased more and more as a form of investment, as distinguished from the conception of it as solely a protection of one's family in case of death. More and more people are going to entrust their funds to life insurance companies that have demonstrated in the last few years that they have the sound management and the experience to take care of it."

Dissolving Indebtedness

THE subject of debt looms large on the mental horizon of today. Quite apart from the manifold questions bound up with the consideration of war debts, those sad legacies of strife which so greatly concern the nations at this time, remains the fact that many individuals are facing a situation in which their assets seem inadequate to meet the liabilities they have incurred. Often, as a result of depreciated currencies, they see the value of their possessions continually diminishing, and begin to question the stability they once accepted as a fixed standard.

It is helpful to examine Jesus' utterances on debt in the light which Christian Science throws upon them. The first mention occurs in the prayer which he gave to his disciples in response to their request that he should teach them to pray. The Master's words, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," are wonderfully illuminated by the spiritual interpretation which Mary Baker Eddy has given them in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 17): "And Love is reflected in love."

Love, then, is the primary solution of this question of debt—the love of God for His children reflected by each one toward his neighbor. It is the love which saw the need of amplifying this subject in a way that would be easily understood by his hearers, for he later expounded it by means of a parable. He told them of a servant who owed a vast sum which he was apparently unable to pay. At his earnest request, however, his lord forgave him this debt. We read that this servant then went out, and finding a fellow servant who owed him a comparatively small amount, "took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest." And disregarding the debtor's plea for patience, he cast him into prison. Their lord, however, became cognizant of the situation and withdrew his pardon, requiring the creditor to pay his own debt.

It is interesting to notice that neither of these debtors protested his inability to pay or asked for the amount to be reduced. They both prayed the creditor for patience, promising to pay the full amount owing. In the first case it is recorded that his lord had compassion on the servant and forgave him his debt; while in the second the creditor took his fellow servant by the throat, or, metaphorically speaking, established such "a strangle hold" upon him as to render it impossible for him to free himself. It is clear that the mental qualities of patience and compassion extended to one who is in difficulties reassure and help him to win his freedom, while a cruel and unmerciful attitude of thought only tightens his bonds.

When we realize that all the love and devotion of which we are capable we owe to God, who is Love and the very source of all being, the meaning of the parable becomes apparent. Our obligations to God can be fulfilled only in the measure of our love and devotion for our fellow men. The mental "strangle hold" of hatred, misunderstanding, envy, or pride expressed in our thought of our brother will hinder him from giving us the appreciation which we believe to be due from him, and from restoring that which he owes. It we fail to reflect the love of God to all about us, the channels of our own capacity to give will become blocked with selfishness and self-seeking. Paul writes, "Owe no man any thing, but to love one another," and Christian Science teaches its students that this debt of love must be paid by each and all who would find the unfailing stream of spiritual supply.

Primarily, then, what is needed both by nations and by individuals today is the compassionate understanding that we are to accept as an erroneous viewpoint of either a debtor or a creditor. We are all debtors to God. And as we begin to lay down our sense of personal possession, the tight grip which fastens on matter and material possessions will become less stringent; and in time to accept as true what Jesus teaches, "The proper means of liquidating our material obligations will become apparent."

There is great need of clarifying our thinking, and refusing to accept a materialistic suggestion of annoyance or fear which would distort our viewpoint of one another. Thought must be lifted to perceive the infinitude of spiritual ideas, which are always at hand to supply the human requirement. To Jesus the demand of the tax collector or the need of the multitude presented no difficulty, because he knew so well the all-embracing nature of his Father's love. He obtained what was necessary, so conscious was he of what Mrs. Eddy has called "the divine law that supply invariably meets demand" ("Miscellaneous Writings," p. 45). But would this have been the case had he allowed his thought to become clouded with resentment toward any of those with whom he was associated?

The patience and compassion so continually manifested by Christ Jesus are needed today in full measure; and in addition to these the quality of steadfast trust and assurance that our Father will open to us the way to meet our human obligations. Mrs. Eddy has made the inspired statement that "the right way wins the right of way, even the way of Truth and Love whereby all our debts are paid, mankind blessed, and God glorified" ("The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany," p. 232).—The Christian Science Monitor.

GENESEE THEATRE

The Genesee Theatre is opening Sunday with the first of the new Fall Motion Pictures and the new season of entertainment begins.

Never before has the show-going public been treated to such an array of wonderful pictures and star-studded casts. Producers have gathered the best selection of material for great stories from the best selling novels and the hit plays, and are sparing no expense to produce the finest offerings ever shown.

Beginning the early showings of the new productions, the Genesee Theatre presents a perfect week of entertainment opening with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter starring in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," playing for four days starting Sunday. Janet Gaynor is at her very best as a lively little lass whose only fault was the ability to tell little white lies which eventually embroils her in all sorts of entanglements with the handsome romantic stranger, the romantic Warner Baxter.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday brings that wholesome humorist Will Rogers in a story as human as "State Fair," and as laughable as only he can make it, "Doctor Bull." His performance is played to perfection as the country doctor beloved to all who know him.

A deer changes color with each change of the season.

Russia's national defense budget is around a billion dollars a year.

"THE GREAT HUNGER" REFLECTS THE VIGOR OF THE NORTHLAND

"Joan and Peter" by Wells
Is the Story of an Education

A strong, vigorous book, permeated with the spirit of Norwegian thought, manners, customs, and the stark atmosphere of the North, with its grim dangers and unsavory humor, is "The Great Hunger," by Johan Bojer. If you liked the Roelvaa novels you'll like this. It is, perhaps, a bit more introspective than the Roelvaa series, with more of a searching question running through the story. It tells of the life of a Norwegian boy, his growth and development, his success, his marriage, his financial failure, and his eternal struggle with the power of fire and steel. It is a vital book, with an appeal to all except readers who never venture beyond Wild West or True Romance stories.

"Joan and Peter" by H. G. Wells, is a story of another kind. Now, don't get scared, because you see that H. G. Wells, whom most of us think of only in connection with "An Outline of History" is the author. He does write novels—novels with a purpose, it's true—but interesting and thought-inspiring.

"Joan and Peter" is, as its preface states, a story of an education. The background is decidedly British. An unmarried man, an Imperialist engaged in extending the civilization of the empire in Africa, is faced with the problem of educating two English orphans. His search for adequate schools, and the children's response to their education, environment, and the war, is the theme of the book.

Casual, light readers, with an abhorrence for pages of generalizations, had better steer clear of this book, for it is not primarily written for amusement purposes alone. Readers who like something real to digest will find ample food for thought in this well-written book.

Both books may be secured at the Antioch Public Library.

LET APPLES TAKE THEIR PLACE AS A TABLE VEGETABLE

Fried or Baked Apples
Make Tasty Accompaniment for Meats

With apples coming into the market—and not so expensive, either, considering what they might be—'tis time to become apple-conscious again. And that does not mean to serve the same hackneyed apple pie, baked apple and apple dumpling that are the standbys in so many homes.

Apples were not intended only for desserts, salads, or to be eaten raw. They are delicious used as a vegetable. Greenings are probably the most popular cooking apple, although the Wealthy, Jonathan, Winesap or Spitzenberg are excellent for cooking purposes as well as for eating. Try serving this baked apple as a vegetable accompaniment to pork sausage.

Used as Vegetables

Place tart apples which have been washed and cored in a baking dish. Fill the centers with pork sausage, hamburger, and cover the bottom of the pan with water. Bake in an oven of about 375 degrees F. until tender.

Fried Apples

Select large Jonathan or other apples of that type; wash, core and cut into eighths. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup granulated sugar. Fry slowly for 1/2 hour without stirring in a covered large iron frying pan with two tablespoons of butter. Remove the cover and continue cooking for ten minutes. Apples fried this way are delicious with pork or any slightly greasy meat. This recipe will serve four.

Cinnamon Apples

Peel and core firm, tart apples. Simmer until tender and red in a sirup made from 1 part red cinnamon candies and 2 parts water. These are delicious chilled and served on a lettuce leaf as a salad. Some people prefer to fill the centers with cream cheese, topped with ground nuts and whipped cream mayonnaise.

Painted Light Bulbs Prevent Eye Discomfort

Water Colors Are Easily Applied and Quickly Removed

Do you notice how much earlier darkness descends since the return to Standard Time? Do you regret the long warm evenings when it was possible to read on the porch in comfort? And when you finally abandoned the porch were you annoyed by the glare of a little-used electric light bulb?

A glaring electric light bulb may be quickly and easily softened by painting with water color. Orange water color, such as is made up for painting window display cards may be diluted to suit the need. If the local stationer hasn't it in stock, mix your own by combining red and yellow sign paint.

Should you desire to remove the paint at some later time, a simple dipping in warm water will return the painted bulb to its original clear state. Hall and bathroom lights in particular are often more satisfactory when subdued.

SEA FOODS CONTAIN ESSENTIAL MINERALS

Turtles Are Found Along Atlantic Coast; Make Fine Soup

At this season of the year the housewife has a wide choice of fish, and the kind to buy will depend on what is plentiful in the various localities. Some favorite varieties are haddock, cod steak, mackerel, salmon, halibut, swordfish, flounders sea scallops lobsters, sea bass, bluefish, butterfish, eels, croakers, porgies, steak tile fish, shrimp, soft shell crabs, weakfish, sea trout and catfish, clams and oysters, and from the Great Lakes fresh niplon whitefish, blue pike, yellow perch, carp, sheep heads, mullets, lake herring, white bass.

Sea foods should not be overlooked by those who like variety on the table for sea foods are not only delightful to the palate but they are the source of essential health sustaining elements including iodine, phosphorus, iron, and calcium.

Roosevelt Catches Turtle

On Labor Day President Roosevelt caught a hundred pound turtle off the Maryland coast and offered this rare sea food treat to the officers of the accompanying destroyers.

Green Turtle is a very expensive luxury, but sometimes the meat is served in steak form. The green turtle, so named because its fat has a delicate green color, is found in the southern waters of America and the West Indies. It is often 5 or 6 feet in length and weighs five or six hundred pounds.

A much smaller variety, diamond back or salt water terrapin, is found all along the Atlantic Coast but it is particularly plentiful in the waters of Chesapeake Bay.

Of the various ways of serving turtle, soup is by all odds the most popular. The Crookes of Louisiana pride themselves in their famous "Soupe a la Tortue."

Grapefruit Plants May Be Used as a Fern Substitute

Much as some people love ferns, it seems that no matter what they do they have no success in raising them. If atmospheric conditions or other causes make it impossible for you to grow ferns, why not do the next best thing and grow a substitute?

A grapefruit plant will serve the purpose. Fill the fern dish with rich earth and plant the seeds of a grapefruit. Plant them thickly and cover with soil one-half inch deep. Keep well watered. Do not be alarmed if there are no immediate results, as they are usually slow to come up. This fern substitute will provide a beautiful green center dish which will last all winter.

Fashion Previews

Late fall swagger coats will be found in corduroy or suede leather, according to gazers into the crystal ball of fashion. The most popular color, 'tis said, will be "old gold."

Knitted mittens of the continental type with embroidery on the backs are in vogue in this country at last.

Gloves, too, will be of wool, but not so simply made. These crocheted gloves will resemble those worn all spring and summer, except that they will be of heavier wool, more closely knit, and in brown, blue, and black colors. Fancy perforated cuffs will add the "last touch."

The winter's blacks, greys, and greens call for real bronze jewelry—necklaces, earrings, clips, and brooches as effective accessories.

Minister, to Deacon—I was surprised to see you talking with a man who is a notorious gambler. What business could you possibly have had with him?

Deacon—I was trying to find out where to cash a number of poker chips that I found in the contribution box.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN FAIR

THE newcomers to the market this week are Idaho baking potatoes, cranberries, and Canadian rutabagas; those sweet yellow turnips. Several of the summer vegetables still linger though their season is growing short. Cauliflower is a popular vegetable as the weather grows cooler and is quickly prepared. A favorite sauce for this vegetable is Mock Hollandaise, a rich white sauce to which the yolk of an egg and some lemon juice has been added. Onions, sweet and white potatoes are economical and of excellent quality.

The early fall fruits include Concord, Malaga and Tokay grapes, Italian plums and pears. Most of these are good for preserving as well as for eating. Honeydew melons are the best of their family at this season. Small Valencia oranges are economical and are a satisfying addition to fruit gelatin.

Here are the menus from the Quaker Maid Kitchen.

Low Cost Dinner

One: Pork, Sweet Potatoes, Creamed Onions, Apple Sauce, Bread and Butter, Chocolate Pudding, Tea or Coffee.

Medium Cost Dinner

Roast Veal, Scalloped Potatoes, Buttered Cabbage, Apple and Celery Salad, Bread and Butter, Orange Jelly with Sliced Bananas, Coffee.

Very Special Dinner

Antipasto, Oven-Broiled Chicken, Mashed Potatoes, Cauliflower Hollandaise, Waldorf Salad, Rolls and Butter, Coffee Gelatin with Whipped Cream, Coffee.

Noises Compared

What is the loudest noise? Frankly our personal opinion was that it was either our neighbor's radio or the milkman in the wee small hours. But an instrument in the E. E. Free laboratories for measuring noises has proved us wrong again, says a writer in The Pathfinder.

According to their "noise thermometer" the loudest noise is an airplane motor and propeller followed by a boiler factory, riveting machines, (thunder, a lion's roar, Niagara Falls, and motor trucks in the order named.

Piano practice ranks 15th and the neighborly radio comes 19th on the list. Purring pussy-cat is listed 25th and rustling of leaves in a slight breeze is just about the faintest sound registered.

It is believed that the explosion of the volcano of Krakatoa in 1883 is the loudest noise ever heard. It was distinctly heard nearly 3,000 miles away and instruments in use at the time proved that its sound waves traveled seven times around the earth.

THAT PLANET PLUTO

Pluto is the ninth major planet and is also the latest one to be discovered. For unnumbered years he hovered out there in the universe some four billions of miles away without being seen by the eye of man.

But along about 1915, Dr. Percival Lowell, founder and director of the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., who had been watching the very erratic actions of Neptune for some time, decided that there was some planet exercising undue influence on Neptune and made such a statement to the public.

His announcement caused a lot of excitement and many eyes were turned to the skies beyond Neptune (which at that time was the most distant planet) and after 15 years, old Pluto got caught by Clyde W. Tombaugh, also of the Lowell observatory, in 1930.

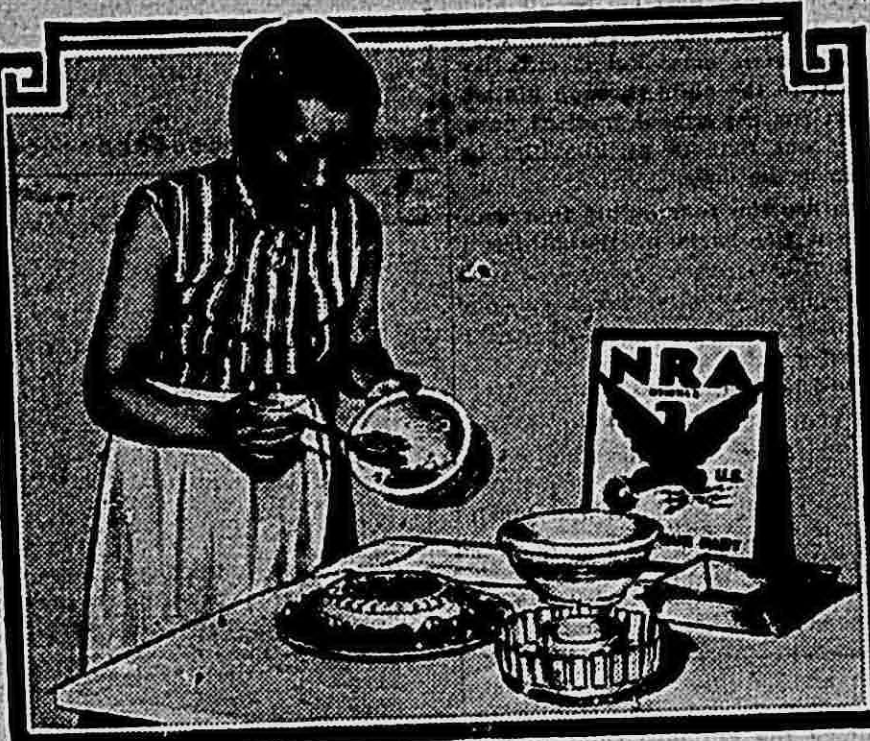

Pluto is estimated to be much smaller than our own earth and because he is not self-luminous he is hard to observe with anything but the best of telescopes. And he travels through space at a very slow rate of not more than two or three miles per second.

Upon first discovery, many astronomers thought Pluto to be a comet but it has been decided now that he is a planet of the fourteenth or fifteenth magnitude. Astronomers tell us that Pluto will grow in brightness until 1959 and after that period will gradually fade away.

Romance Everywhere

One constantly hears that "the romance of discovery is dead." But nothing could be further from the truth. Only the other day a school-girl recognized a stone lying under a hedge near Maldstone as a Stone Age ax. Astronomers constantly discover new worlds, while untapped realms of spiritual experience wait for all to explore.—London Mail.

New NRA Dessert Is Smart

Color and design of blue eagle emblem reproduced in gelatin by Ethel Shutta, singer, for hubby, George Olsen, orchestra leader.

A NEW dessert that captures the spirit of the times, a gay red, white and blue delicacy concocted in honor of the NRA blue eagle emblem, has been introduced by Ethel Shutta, wife of George Olsen, the orchestra leader. She is evidently a star at cooking as well as singing as the new dish is an artistic creation and in addition is unusually tasty. She has named it "The Royal Blue Eagle Dessert."

"The Royal Blue Eagle Dessert" is smart because it is predicted by those who have seen it, because it is easy to make, appeals to the eye and the palate, and is as modern as the NRA. Miss Shutta claims that when the spirits are low, the sight of this dish goes a long way toward recovery and the guests always say, "Code we have some more!"

Two flavored gelatins and a dish of blueberries are used to supply the colors. Around the outside edge is a ring of cubed red cherry gelatin that flashes like the light inside ring of white is pineapple gelatin prepared in a fluted ring mold that is a perfect reproduction of the cogwheel held by the eagle and can be easily obtained if it is not already a part of the kitchen equipment. The center is composed of blueberries. Here is the recipe:

1 package gelatin dessert (pineapple flavor); 1 cup boiling water; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 cup milk; 1 cup cream; 1 package gelatin dessert (cherry flavor); 1 cup boiling water; 2/3 cup cold water; 1/3 cup cooking sherry; and 1 pint blueberries.

Directions: Dissolve quick setting gelatin (pineapple flavor) in boiling water; add sugar; chill until it begins to thicken. Add milk, mixing thoroughly. Fold in cream, whipped. Pour into ring mold and chill until firm. Wash and sugar blueberries. Dissolve quick setting gelatin (cherry flavor) in boiling water. Add cold water and cooking sherry. Pour into shallow pan and chill until firm. When ready to serve, cut in cubes and use as a garnish around ring mold. Fill center of mold with sugared blueberries. Serves 12. Approximate cost $60.

The Yesterday and Today of Jelly Making

By Alice Blake

The modern method

WANDERING through an old colonial house on my vacation recently, I stood before the open fireplace in the kitchen wondering about the woman who had done her cooking there. Prepared not only for the daily meals but stirred great batches of jelly over that open fire and waited tedious hours for the contents of the pot to boil down to the proper consistency. And even after that had no assurance that the jelly would "jell."

What a long way we've come! We modern women who make jams and jellies in twenty to thirty minutes from the lady who lived in that house. Think of her when you turn on your gas or electric stove or light your oil burner to cook your final batch of jelly and contents of a Think of her when you measure that magical substance, bottled fruit pectin, into your preserving kettle and, after two or three minutes of boiling, turn a gleaming, favorable batch of jelly or jam into freshly scalded glasses. And again when you use such simple recipes as these which absolutely assure the success of your jelly if you follow them accurately.

Ripe Grape Conserves

3 cups (1 1/2 lbs.) prepared fruit
1 cup (1/2 lb.) sugar
1 cup hot water, freshly chopped
1/2 lb. seeded raisins
1/2 lb. bottled fruit pectin

To prepare sugar into large kettle. Add raisins, sugar and prepared fruit, filling up that cup with water if necessary. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir

Eleven glasses in 20 minutes and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot conserve at once. Makes about 9 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

Spiced Grape Jelly

4 1/2 cups (2 1/4 lbs.) juice
6 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar
1/2 lb. bottled fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1/2 cup apple vinegar, 1 teaspoon cloves, and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

"Training Diets Include Milk, Fruits and Vegetables," Says Dietitian

Here is a Well Balanced Dinner That Builds Good Health.

By FRANCES BERKELEY FLOORE
Director of Dietetics, St. Luke's Hospital

MOST of us are familiar with the fact that the growing child needs "all his stomach can hold" but it may be that he needs even more than that. This is not as unreasonable a statement as it sounds. It simply means, as explained by Dr. Lydia J. Roberts of the University of Chicago, that a child's digestive tract particularly during the adolescent years, is too small to accommodate the large amounts required to meet his energy needs unless considerable quantities of concentrated foods are provided.

Among these concentrated foods she lists butter, cheese, eggs, milk, cream and peanut butter. So if you are ever tempted to serve a "dainty" meal to your teen age children remember this need for concentrated foods—and don't.

It is especially necessary that the high school boy who is going out for athletics should have these concentrated foods. Perhaps it may seem the results of disobeying proper diet rules are not as quickly noticed in decreased physical fitness as are the effects of breaking other training rules such as those referring to the use of alcohol and tobacco, for example, but nevertheless, the favorable effect which correct diet has on health is every bit as real as the unfavorable effect of the alcohol and tobacco.

The favorable effect which one particular food may have is clearly proved by the Olympic champions whose physical superiority is partly attributed to the fact that they use nearly three times as much milk and other dairy products as the average person.

Incidentally the training rules of the athlete who is making a special effort to perfect himself physically might well be put into practice by all high school students, both girls and boys and the parent may find it effective to appeal to the child through his admiration for the school football hero, pointing out that to be like him he must do as he does.

These are the four points that usually form the basis of the athlete's training rules:

1. About nine hours of sleep each night followed when possible by a cold bath and a brisk rub.
2. No smoking.

3. A well-balanced diet built around fresh milk, fruits, vegetables and eggs. On the day of the game breakfast should be the hearty meal and lunch a very light one consisting of one piece of toast, one poached or soft-boiled egg, one small boiled or baked potato and one glass of water. This lunch should precede the game by three hours. Although this information is not needed by the child who is applying the athlete's rules to his own life, it is an important point which the boy in training should know—and frequently doesn't.

4. Drinking milk and water rather than tea or coffee.

There are 20,000,000 widows in India, between 200,000 and 300,000 of them under 25.

If you intend to hitch your wagon to a star, better make sure that it's not going to be a falling star.

Diet Expert Shows How to Have Variety in School Lunch

Director of Dietetics, St. Luke's Hospital

THE problem of the school lunch really begins, not at noon, but at breakfast, for if the child does not have an adequate breakfast, then slowly he is apt to be so hungry by recess time that he will eat the largest part of his lunch then instead of waiting until noon. This is what the "best" breakfast includes: One helping of fruit; one cup of milk; 1/2 cup cereal breakfast food (whole grain is desirable); 2 slices of toast with butter.

As to the lunch itself—fresh milk, vegetables, and fruits are first essentials. If a hot dish containing them is not served at school they should be included in the lunch carried from home. Incidentally, that hot dish served at school is very necessary.

Here is a standard "pattern" for the school lunch that should be followed in general. It allows, of course, for infinite variety.

- 1 cup of milk in some form
- Whole grain bread, and butter
- 1 serving of vegetables or fruit (preferably both)
- 1 serving of such foods as eggs, cheese, fish or meat
- Something sweet but not rich

Knowing how to pack the carried lunch when it contains liquid foods is almost as important as knowing what those foods should be. Milk may be carried in half-pint milk bottles or fruit jars, screw top jars such as those in which candy and salad dressing are sold, or bottles and paper cartons with tight fitting tops. The milk should be protected from metal tops of jars by waxed paper.

Canned fruits, salads, puddings, cottage cheese and such semi-solid foods may be carried in jelly glasses, screw-top jars or covered paper cartons.

For the mother whose ideas for sandwich fillings have been about exhausted by preparing lunches for a procession of school-age children, some suggestions may be welcome:

Sliced hard-cooked egg, salad dressing, thin slices of crisp bacon; minced egg, American cheese, chopped pickle and salad dressing; creamed cottage cheese, with cinnamon and sugar; boiled or roasted beef, veal, lamb, mutton or chicken sliced thin and covered with grated raw carrot and salad dressing; cottage cheese on one slice, jam, jelly, honey, marmalade or conserve on the other; peanut butter, ground dried fruit, salad dressing or fruit juice; shredded raw spinach, a little grated onion, salad dressing; ground dried fruits such as prunes, pears, or cherries, mixed with orange juice or tart canned fruit juices.

Of course almost any sandwich is improved in both taste and nutritive value by the addition of such greens as a leaf of lettuce, shredded cabbage, raw spinach or parsley. And this is one way to include that necessary green vegetable in the lunch.

Highly seasoned salad dressings should not be used in sandwiches for young children but plain oil dressing or fruit juices improve most any sandwich mixture.

price to producers for class 1 milk be raised from $1.75 to $2.10 and on class 2 from a percentage of the butter fat market price to a flat $1.45 per hundred pounds. Surplus milk will cost distributors three cents per hundred pounds, plus three and one-half times 92 score Chicago butter. The amendment also establishes an equalization pool which is expected to result in a blended price being paid to all milk producers regardless of the dealers to whom their milk is sold.

Relief Agencies Create Problem
Officials of the larger dairy companies in Chicago and the Pure Milk Association were to meet yesterday to determine the attitude of the milk industry toward the federal agricultural adjustment administration's milk trade agreement for the metropolitan area.

A source of difficulty lies in the opposition of state officials to the proposed boost of 1 cent a quart for milk delivered upon orders of the Illinois relief commission to unemployed. The new code would raise the price from 9 1/2 cents to 10 1/2 cents per quart.

Don Geyer declared that the farmers don't feel justified in absorbing the entire loss, but wishes consideration to be given to the distribution of costs in supplying the relief commission with milk.

"If the price of milk for the unemployed is not raised the farmers will be standing a loss on the milk, which is now being delivered on a cost basis," he said. He also pointed out that the Pure Milk Association as well as other milk companies are now contributing about $40,000 in cash annually to the relief agencies.

Best Complex Report
Another more local angle to the situation is the position taken by the McHenry county dairymen. E. L. Best, chairman of the Farmers' Protective Association and one of the committee of three in Washington, has compiled a report taken from the county clerk and county recorder's offices in McHenry county which show that mortgages on 149 foreclosures filed recently totaled $2,021,131, or an average of $66.34 an acre.

From May 1 to date 232 chattel mortgages totaling $356,328, have been recorded, or an average of $1264 per farmer.

The farmers are paying an average of approximately 13 per cent, which would make the interest and principal at the end of one year $1,323, according to Best.

By using these figures, Best points out that the best average profit that any farmer can hope to realize on 100 pounds of milk is 8 cents over and above his feed and costs. At this rate he would be required to milk 152 cows daily for one year to pay the chattel mortgage on an average mortgage of $1,264 and interest.

Foody—Do you exercise after your bath, or before it?

Gink—After. I usually step on the soap when I get out of the tub.

"They say that if a man's ears are red it's a sign that somebody is talking about him."

"Yes, and he can just bet that somebody is also talking about him if his nose is red."

Friend, to Artist—I've seen a big man going to your studio every day for the last week. Is he sitting for you?

Artist—No; he's laying for me. He is a bill collector.

"They say Billfuzz is wandering in his mind."

"Well, he's safe enough. He can't go far."
